CITY MATTERS.

Word has been received here that Mr. G. W. Hastings is in poor health at Interlachen, Florida.

There will be a skating match at Lagonda, in a few weeks, for a prize, contestants to be under eighteen years of age. The prize is to be a $5 gold piece.

A Mrs. King, lecturing in London, says: "Let a man wear a woman's dress six months and then he will have a right to talk about it." But sweetheart, the police, the police!

Mr. Thomas Sharp leaves for Interlachen, Florida, and for other localities in that State, about the first of February. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas and Mr. and Mrs. Diamond, of Cincinnati, will accompany him.

Members of Lagonda Tribe, No. 61, I. O. R. M., met to-night at seven o'clock to arrange for the funeral of Thomas Brown, to-morrow at two o'clock. Members of Buck Creek Tribe are also requested to attend. The Foresters also meet at their hall to-night for the same purpose.

Not in the way of a local, but for the purpose of expressing ye local's opinion during the absence of the "boss," we will say that next to receiving twenty-seven new paid-up subscribers, nothing would give us more pleasure than to write an obituary notice of Henry Ward Beecher.

Oil City, Pa., Derrick, Jan. 22:—"Mr. Frank W. Stuart, of Springfield, Ohio, passed through the city yesterday on his way to New York, and will start for Florence, Italy, next month, where he will resume his study of music. He returned to the United States some time ago on account of the cholera."

When we see a couple that are so anxious to convince the outside world that they think more of each other than a tramp "print" does of a square meal, you can safely conclude that in the privacy of their own home they shie cooking utensils at each other with a recklessness that is surprising as it is disastrous.

Within an egg, laid by a Kansas hen last week, was found a needle. The hen deserves a certain amount of credit for her performance, but needles are very cheap. Now, if the hens were to commence laying eggs containing sewing-machines—Well, well, Springfield manufacturers could hardly stand this kind of overproduction.

It is not alone the "celery hog" at the hotel who stirs up your wrath, but it is the chronic kicker who is always complaining of this that or the other before him. We have observed in our travels through this vale of tears, that the man who does the most kicking about the vitals before him, is one that was raised on dried apples and sorghum.

Gen. Wm. H. Gibson will lecture for Clay Hay Post, G. A. R., in the town hall, New Carlisle, next Wednesday evening, January 28. An invitation has been extended Mitchell Post, No. 45, this city, to attend, and an effort is being made to make up a party of fifteen, thus securing reduced rates on the I. B. & W. railroad. Comrades can return immediately after the lecture.

The re-insulted firemen, Luke Brennan and Geo. Allison, were on duty again last Wednesday night. Next Monday, in accordance with action of Council last Tuesday night, "Daisy" Wertz will be transferred from the Hill to the Factory street house, and Tom Norton, of the latter, will take Wertz's place at the Southern. Otherwise fire department affairs remain status quo ante bellum.

One of the employees of this office, having been engaged in the newspaper business in Colorado a number of years, is the recipient of many papers published there. Among these was one shown us—Vol. I, No. 1, "Leadville Advance"—in the salutatory of which the editor says: "We shall be truthful." In this the editor certainly steps aside from an old and well established principle of journalism.

The bill abolishing the office of city marshal of Springfield was defeated in the House at Columbus the other day, under the impression that it would affect other cities as well as this. The bill came up again on reconsideration Thursday and was passed in the House, the resolution unanimously adopted by the city council being read. There is little doubt it will pass the Senate and become a law.

The water main on Champion avenue passes under a culvert at one place, and is necessarily somewhat exposed. It froze up this week, as a test of the hydrants showed, but the fire department succeeded in thawing it out Thursday night. For one night much valuable property beyond, but not including East street shops, was in danger, as the water supply was cut off. It requires constant watchfulness and no small amount of extra labor on the part of the firemen to keep the system for fire protection in order for instant use all over the city. Very often when other people are snug in their downy beds the boys are out and around on this city.

"Who the Devil Cares?"

Pat Rooney. Well, we saw him at the Grand Friday night and right glad we are that we did, and thereby hangs a tale." On our way home from the show (we won't be particular about the exact location), being by ourself, our thoughts riveted on the possibilities of getting in some back way, we were somewhat startled by hearing a female voice at a side entrance, on one of the main streets, exclaim, "Barring, God, knows I love you." Stepping back suddenly, and as noiselessly as possible, we traced up to the side of the building, and being hidden to a great extent by the shadow of the building, we were able to creep close to the door-way and peer through a small opening, en-bling us to gaze on this, what we supposed certainly must be, the woman we saw. To re we saw Beatrice Muligan leaning her jowled-impressed head against the off shoulder of Theodorica Penwiler, while the soft moon shone like a benediction on her drooping eyelids and lowering brows. Her tresses lower stood as entwined with the flashing radiance of a lovely vision, and as he gazed with pensive eyes at the trusting form, whose lovely head was greasing his best coat unawares, his soul seemed to be lost in a haven of bliss. He stroked her hair awhile with a Glove-Revolver, and then said, "Well (hic), who the devil (hic) cares."

W. D. Piper, representing L. Patric & Co., returned yesterday from a business trip to Cincinnati.

Miss Ella Shewalter returned yesterday to Oswego, New York, where she holds a position as superintendent of a hospital.

Go into O. H. Anderson's and see his two owls arranged in the highest art of taxidermy. They roost on the telephone box.

The remarkable change in the weather this morning plays havoc with the many sleighers, and will fill the youthful coaters with disappointment, but older people will survive the shock, and heartily wishes will speed the departure of the beautiful snow.

The ice gathered on the telegraph wires and trees annoyed the pedestrians on the streets this morning by falling in long sections like glass cones on ropes, and constantly endangering plug hags, or jabbing into the human eye with excessive recklessness.

The sky perlers of the station house specially devoted to the transient entertainment of the ladies, is now receiving elegant internal improvements, and the fair, trail prisoners may now have the scenic and other comforts of home while enjoying the hospitality of the city.

The following named additional jurymen have been drawn for service in Common Pleas court, beginning Wednesday next: J. C. Pringle, Madison township; Samuel Rhodes, Fifth ward; Henry Webster, Springfield township; James Hodge and J. D. Boyd, Harmony township; Washington Wilson, Third ward.

The coating of ice which has covered trees, telegraph wires, etc., for a week, is dropping off under the influence of the thaw. This cause the wires to be guilty of all sorts of eccentricities, such as tapping the fire alarm bell, sounding false calls at the patrol house and filling the back of your neck with fragments of ice.

Valentine Seibert, living between Yellow Springs and Race streets, north of Columbus, is said to be a little tough in his conduct when in liquor, as he was yesterday. He was abusing his family and the patrol was sent for. The old gentleman sighted the wagon coming for him and made himself scarce, but a second run was made with better success and Val. was put away. Andy Vinson, colored, of the same neighborhood, was wagoned later, on a somewhat similar charge. The wagon made four runs last night.

The Legislature adjourned yesterday, immediately after the reading of the journal, until Tuesday. Judge Little came home last evening. He says there is no doubt of the passage of the bill abolishing the office of city marshal of Springfield, and that the bill making the Mayor's a salaried office, has a fair prospect of becoming a law, although, owing to conflicting interests and some misapprehension on certain quarters, it will require hard work and careful handling to bring about that result. He proposes to stay right by both bills and secure their passage if at all possible. The marshal bill will go to the Senate when it meets again. It has not yet done so.

Captain A. H. Mattox, now of Cincinnati, but born and "raised" in this city, has been Secretary of the Army and Navy Society of Cincinnati for eleven years, until he tendered his resignation some days ago. After complimentary remarks were made of the retiring Secretary by General J. D. Cox, General Hickenlooper, Dr. Kemper, Major Daves and others, the resignation was accepted, and Captain Mattox, for his long and faithful services, was elected a life member, exempt from all dues and assessments, (the only one in the society). Dr. A. C. Kemper, Major J. J. Foley and Major E. C. Daves, a committee appointed to draft resolutions of regret and thanks to the retiring Secretary, reported in terms of the highest praise.

The committee of arrangements for the Department Encampment, G. A. R., at Akron, next week, has issued the following to correct false rumors in circulation:

Akron, O., January 22, 1885. A ridiculous story having gained some circulation to the effect that an epidemic has been prevailing in Akron, we take this occasion to most emphatically deny the story as being utterly devoid of truth, as the health of our city has never been better than at the present time. You will please take occasion to correct any impression of this kind which may prevail, and encourage all comrades who had intended doing so, to visit our State Encampment, which gives prospect of being the most successful and pleasant one heretofore held. And we will promise you not only a good time, but pledge our Post Surgeon to take care of all who are affected by the richness of our baked beans.

Geo. Belov, P. C., Chairman, T. D. McGillicuddy, Secretary, Com. of Arrangements.

A GLOBE-REPUBLIC reporter was shown through Robert's Son's new slaughter and packing house, at West Springfield, one day this week, and found it the most complete establishment of the kind in this part of the State. It is remarkable in the first place for its compactness, every department being so arranged and situated with regard to others as to admit of the despatch of a large amount of work by a small force, in the shortest possible time. The packing capacity is about one hundred hogs per day with two hands in the slaughter house, and can be increased proportionately by an increase of force. The refrigeration is on a new system, superior to anything ever introduced here, and it is the intention to remodel the refrigerator building at the house in town, soon, on the same plan. The work was in charge of O. N. Bartholomew, and complete in running order, the concern is really one of the institutions of the city. Next season the firm will construct an artificial lake on their own grounds above the packing house, from which to cut ice. They are now storing about 700 tons of ice in the brick ice-house attached, or rather a part of the packing house.

Transfers of Real Estate.

Asa Davis to Celestia Whitaker, lot in Tibbetts addition, $2,500.

Brickman and Haer to John Simpson, property in New Moorfield, $675.

Hugo Friedlander to Oscar O. Friedlander, lot in Lagonda, $1.

Lushan & Powell to David H. Campbell, 3 1/2-10 acres land in Plattsburg, $3,500.

J. R. Ambrose to Carey Bogges, lot on Liberty street, $1,000.

The Death Record.

Funeral services were held to-day over the remains of Mr. Henry Bennett, at the residence near Plattsburg. Deceased was a pioneer woman of the county; a sister of Thomas Goodfellow, of Vienna and otherwise widely connected in the county and city. Her age was 69 years and she had been for sometime in poor health. There was a large assemblage of relatives and friends at the funeral.

Died: Saturday morning, January 24, 1885, Elizabeth, wife of Albert Thompson, in the 49th year of her age. Services at the residence of her husband on Fisher street, below Columbia, Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock. Interment at Pligah church, Champlain county. Friends are invited to attend.

NOTES FROM CLEVELAND.

Moses Cleveland—An Editor's Fix—Blue Eyes Going—Tramps' Rest—Free School Books—Electric Light—An Advertising Dodge—New Music Hall—Free Soup.

Some time ago I saw in one of the store windows a picture of Cleveland in its younger days. There are people not far from where I write who have seen a corduroy road out to Euclid avenue and a log bridge not two miles from the square.

I have been looking back a little and I find that our city is no more than a good old story for a man. England can boast of her tumble-down ruins, but when it comes to growth in population she is way behind. Moses Cleveland, a graduate of Yale and captain in the army, was given power by the Connecticut Land Company, to survey the Western Reserve, lay out towns and make friends with the Indians.

July 22, 1786, his little band of surveyors laid out a city a mile square, in what was then a noble forest. Moses thought the city which held his name would some day be a great place, and predicted for it a population of 1,500. If he could see the Cuyahoga river to-day he would have given up all hope. A dirtier, more filthy river does not exist, to my mind, and I have seen a good many.

At first there were three log cabins and a total resident population of four; this varied until in 1830, at the first U. S. census Cleveland contained 1,075 people. In this year the Advertiser appeared. The editor found the name too long for the "form," so the "a in Cleveland" was dropped, a novel way of getting over the difficulty, surely. The public accepted the change and the predicted city of 1,500 will on its first centennial in 1886 probably contain a population of three hundred thousand and more.

In the dim future young men can be seen striving as hard to win the girl with blue eyes as they strive now for heiresses. If an industrious Frenchman can be relied upon, blue eyes are becoming extinct as fast as buffaloes on the plains. I could not attempt to explain all his experiments and observations, but he says that there is an increase of 5 per cent of dark eyes in each generation where the parents' eyes differ. Look out for blue eyes.

The Council have been wrestling with the light question, and at last have decided to try electric lights another year. There is much opposition, however, and no matter on how small a street a congressman lives he must have electric lights or he don't want any one else to have any. This is too strong a way to put it of course, but that is the idea.

The Board of Education are fighting over free school books. Many scholars don't care about free school books, but it seems as if the thing went too far when they shut off ink and paper. I believe they did furnish paper at the last examination, but you can imagine the beauty of carrying an ink bottle, taking care that the bottle don't get broken; getting the ink over your fingers, and at last, when you get to school, find the ink frozen solid.

It is said that a well known pill firm in London has sent a wagon-load of posters describing the merits of their pills to be distributed among the soldiers in Egypt under Lord Wolseley; and a check of $750 to be given to the soldier who first pins a pill poster on General Gordon's door in Khartoum.

Work has been begun on a new tabernacle and music hall to seat 5,000 people. Mr. W. H. Doan, the owner of the old tabernacle, in which so much good has been done, is the prime mover in the present enterprise. The building will be heated by steam, and ventilation will be well considered. Light will be admitted through three rows of windows; the ceilings will be plastered and handsomely decorated; the seats will be perforated and lift up, while special precaution is taken against fire. There will be two galleries with each seat facing the center.

Poverty Barn has done a good business this year, having 10,007 lodgers for the year just ending. During cold weather, when tramp business is poor, the barn has sometimes 100 boarders a night and over 2,000 a month, while in July there were only 309 members present. Accounts show that only 500 of the 10,000 cannot read, and only about the same number are married.

When men talked of freeing the slaves, some said they would be helpless and on the hands of the country. Only 145 colored men were housed at Poverty Barn this year, less than 1 1/4 per cent. of the 10,000. The Bethel has begun to give away free soup to the poor. A warm room to sleep in this very cold weather would be a grand charity. It has been hardly possible to keep warm with plenty of blankets the last few days. Think of a man attempting to support a wife and children when he has not enough food, and that cold and cheap, let alone a cold room and scanty bed clothes. Honest and hard-working citizens should be helped as well as protected. Many a man takes to drink and ruins his family because he don't have enough food and clothes to keep him warm. This is where legislation is needed, and money will be as well spent as in $5,000 salaries. CHARLES K. BOLTON.

Amusements.

A fair sized and highly amused audience witnessed the presentation of "Yakie" at Black's Opera House last night. Al. Wyman is the best German dialect comedian that has appeared here this season, and Miss Lulu Wilson is charming and vivacious. The play will be repeated to-night. Note the low prices of admission.

Draper's Uncle Tom's Cabin company will appear at the Grand next Monday evening. This is one of the best companies of the kind now traveling. The Peoria Transcript says: "Miss Kate Partington is probably the most natural Topsy on the road. She does not overdo the part, is petite, has a good dialect, sings and dances well, and handles the banjo in an admirable manner. The part of Aunt Ophelia was the best 'uncorked' feature of the evening. She is a lady well adapted to the character.

Our theater-goers, especially those who have a taste for the legitimate, have a treat in store for them next Monday evening in the first presentation in this city of "A Midnight Marriage." The scene is laid in France in 1826 and the play abounds in stirring incidents, beautiful language, and strongly drawn characters, while the story is exciting and intensely interesting and holds the closest attention of the listener to the fall of the curtain. William Redmond and Mrs. Thos. Barry, who appear in the leading roles, are artists of unusual merit and have received the highest praise everywhere. The play has just closed a remarkably successful engagement at Havlin's Theater, Cincinnati.

The Battle of Shiloh.

In his article on "Shiloh," in the February Century, General Grant describes the anxious night after the first day of that battle. He says: "The rain fell in torrents, and our troops were exposed to the storm without shelter. I made my headquarters under a tree. A few hundred yards from a river bank, my ankle was so much swollen from the fall of my horse the Friday night preceding, and the bruise was so painful, that I could get no rest. The drenching rain would have prevented the possibility of sleep, without this additional cause. Some time after midnight, growing restive under the storm and the continuous pain, I moved back to the log-house on the bank. This had been taken as a hospital, and all night wounded men were being brought in, their wounds dressed, a leg or an arm amputated, as the case might require, and everything being done to save life or alleviate suffering. The sight was more unendurable than encountering the rebel fire, and I returned to my tree in the rain."

A Texas editor of a scientific turn of mind, in proportion to size a man could holler as loud as a baby there would be no telephone needed in this country.

The human structure is wonderful in mechanism. Each organ has its allotted part to perform, and none is more important than that for which the kidneys are designed. It is, therefore, imperative that these should be kept in perfect health, and they should be judiciously guarded against the encroachments of disease. George Kelly, of Jersey City, writes: "Dr. Stevens gave me Mischler's Herb Bitters while I was under his treatment for gravel, and has told me to continue to take it."

There is no one article in the line of medicines that give so large a return for the money as a good porous strengthening plaster, such as Carter's Smart Weed and Belladonna Backache Plasters.

I have been bothered with catarrh for about twenty years. I could not tell how many different remedies I have tried, and none seemed to reach my case like Ely's Cream Balm. I had lost my smell entirely for the last fifteen years, and I had almost lost my hearing. My eyes were getting so dim I had to get some one to thread my needle. Now I have my hearing as well as I ever had, and I can see to thread as fine a needle as ever I did, and my smell is partly restored, and it seems to be improving all the time. I think there is nothing like Ely's Cream Balm for Catarrh. I always had a trouble with my throat and a little backing coming, and I am almost well of that.—Mrs. M. E. Some Foolish People

Allow a cough to run until it gets beyond the reach of medicine. They often say, Oh it will wear away, but in most cases it wears
